Summary

I am a self-taught developer specializing in JavaScript, React and React Native. I have learned through building and deploying apps, pushing to GitHub and getting peer code reviews on LinkedIn and twitter. Because of my contagious enthusiasm and passion for learning I got apperception from many developers on twitter. I love the daily challenges of web and App development: writing quality code, learning new technologies, and solving complex problems. I have been continuing to learn through opportunities comes. I look forward to working on a team that is passionate about their product.

I want to make things that make a difference.
